Melt the press
Unwind the stress
and then undress
with widened eyes
and growing wheels
and your high heels You'll take me home
among your stairs
and fairy girls
The very means of scrambled skies
and blistered dreams

Tornadoes roaring Earth
Giving childlife birth
Under the arms of air
And lies

Prentend you like
The tact to hike
And grab the mic
on rainy days
you ain't minimized
uncauthORIZED
Hold on your rope
and plead again
and ask for hope
And breath again
Cause these days
await for pain

Tornadoes roaring Earth
Giving Childlife birth
Under the arms of air
and lies
and cries
Among the desert girl
