We all take chances, tormenting changes fighting
Letting go not knowing what tomorrow brings
Hour to hour, day by day, we pray someday we'll find a Place to stay but darkness never ends for us

Living in a strange world crying
Living in a strange world dying
Trying to protect ourselves from harm

Knowing we are living in a strange world
(Living in a strange world)
Calling, hoping that you'll change world
(Hoping that you'll change)

Women with children struggling to make a living battling
Let the cries be heard before the night is gone Hour to hour, day by day the children have no place to play
They dream of home so far away

Living in a strange world crying
Living in a strange world dying
Trying to protect ourselves from harm

Knowing we are living in a strange world
(Living in a strange world)
Calling, hoping for a change world
(Hoping for a change)

No more living in a strange
(Living in a strange world)
We laugh and smile upon the new world
No

We are living on our own in a world out of control
No place to call our own

We are living in a strange world
(Living in a strange world)
Calling, hoping that you'll change world
(Hoping that you'll change)

No more living in a strange
(Living in a strange world)
We laugh and smile upon the new world

How come we're still living
In a strange world, in a strange world
We hide, we cry, we die
In a strange world, in a strange world

Strange world, strange world, strange world
We hide, we cry, we die
In this strange world, in this strange world
In this strange world, in this strange world

Strange world, strange world, strange world
Strange world, strange world, strange world
