

Marc Meyers

"Dark Lady From Trinidad"

Visit "Dark Lady From Trinidad" on MotoLyrics.com

People Say that no man comes with love
In his opened hands.
What would you do if I took off my clothes
And laid down my heart for you?

Could you love, the man you see and hold
Him close to you?
And would you warm him in your heart
And protect him endlessly?

(Interlude)
Many the soft words I cry in the night
Hoping for you to feel,
The truth be known, my soul is burnin' too
And I reach out in the night for you.

Did you hear the whispers from the flowers
And the sun, in April, on the day we met?
Our hearts were cast to sail into the cove
Where miracles and dreams can last.

(Interlude)
Dark lady from Trinidad, can you hear my song?
There's no other, pleasure for my life,
But for your love to keep me safe and warm.

People say that a man gives his heart
In the wind as a gentle tree.
What can he do but set down his cloak
By the hearth of his lover's deeds?

(Interlude)
Many the soft words I cry in the night
Hoping for you to feel,
The truth be known, my soul is burnin' too
And I reach out in the night for you
And I reach out in the night for you

Visit Marc Meyers page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

