Just as the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west, baby, I point in your direction
As the birds fly from the north, headed south
Dear love, your love is like perfection

Just like the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west, I point in your direction
Just like the birds fly from the north
Headed for the south, your love is like perfection

When I first saw you I knew I had to change
'Cause everything I used to do, it just don't feel the same
When you stared into my eyes, you stole my heart
Now I just can't see my life with you and me apart

Baby, just like the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west, I point in your direction
I say just like the birds fly from the north
Headed for the south, your love is like perfection

Every day and every night I wanna cry
'Cause I just don't understand how God could bless my life
With you I'm happy, with you I'm never sad
I claim you as the only one, you're the best I ever had

You are more precious than pearls
You're everything, girl, it's true, I would say I do it for you
And I would even give my life with no fuss or fight
But let's just make sweet love tonight

Baby, just like the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west, I point in your direction
Just like the birds fly from the north
Headed for the south, your love is like perfection

Just like the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west, baby, I point in your direction
Just like the birds fly from the north
Headed for the south, your love is like perfection

Just like the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west, I point in your direction
Just like the birds fly from the north
Headed for the south, your love is like perfection

Just like the wind blows to the east
Coming from the west
