Hello, I'd like for us to talk, but right now is not such a great time. Maybe when it's more convenient for me and I get something out of it. We'll start off slow, maybe rides to work, that's all I can take for now. It's hard to please everyone, alright? I promise. I think I'm more happy when there's no sorries. How's it feel to have such fools attracted to you? I think I know well I know I think-- I sort of have nothing to say and if I did I'd say nothing at all. Now I'm too scared to touch a friend like you.
