If you think I laugh louder than anyone here
If you think that my volume's too high
If you think I laugh louder you ain't heard nothing yet
You ought to hear me cry

If you think I talk louder than maybe I should
Well I guess I'm just that kind of girl
But if I talk loud and laugh loud you ain't heard it all
You ought to hear me cry

I go home to a home where love's almost gone
Not enough to fill one needle's eye
Then I sat down in the corner and I turn on the tears
And you ought to hear me cry
[steel]
I go home to a home...
You ought to hear me cry
