

Margot And The Nuclear So and So's "New York City Hotel Blues"

Visit "New York City Hotel Blues" on MotoLyrics.com

It seems like the only way out's through the back
The taxi cab is running late
And I've gotta know now, honey who
What is the name of the man you choose?

I'm never gonna break your heart
Not unless I have to

Seems like the only way out's through the ditch
By the crummy old house where your mom used to live
And I've gotta know now, honey who
What is the name of the drug you do?

I'm never gonna break your heart
Not unless I have to

But the sun feels right
The hurricane winds are dying down
The sun feels right
And the hurricane winds are dying down

Seems like the only way out's through the back
The taxi cab is running late
And I've got to know now, honey who
What is the name of the man you choose?
I've got to know now, honey who
What is the name of the man you choose?

I'm never going to break your heart
Not unless I want to

But the sun feels right
The hurricane winds are dying down
The sun feels right
The hurricane winds are dying down

Visit Margot And The Nuclear So and So's page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.