Why are you fighting?
I thought we wanted the same thing
Why are you crying?
You said you never wanted me back
I thought you needed some time alone
But time made you lonely

So don't come running, now it's too late
Blame it on consequences, blame it on fate
Sending me flowers won't bring me home
It was you, not me wanting some time alone

Why do you want me
When we're hurting each other?
Why do you call me
When you have nothing at all to say?
I thought you needed some time to think
But time left me thinking

So don't come running, now it's too late
Blame it on consequences, blame it on fate
Sending me flowers won't bring me home
It was you, not me wanting some time alone

Why are you begging?
It was you who made us end this
Why am I listening
When you're yelling all the time?
I thought you needed some time away
But time became distance

So don't come running, now it's too late
Blame it on consequences, blame it on fate
Sending me flowers won't bring me home
It was you, not me wanting some time alone
