

Marillion

"The Last Straw: Happy Ending"

Visit "The Last Straw: Happy Ending" on MotoLyrics.com

(Fish, Steve Rothery, Mark Kelly, Pete Trewavas, Ian Mosley)

Hotel hobbies padding dawn's hollow corridors
A typewriter cackles out a stream of memories

Drying out a conscience, evicting a nightmare
Opening the doors for the dreams to come home

We live our lives in private shells
Ignore our senses and fool ourselves
To thinking that out there that someone else cares Someone to answer all our prayers, all our prayers...

Are we too far gone, are we so irresponsible
Have we lost our balls, or do we just not care
We're terminal cases that keep talking medicine Pretending the end isn't quite that near
We make futile gestures, act to the cameras
With our made-up faces and our PR smiles
And when the angel comes down, down to deliver us
We'll find out that after all, we're only men of straw

But everything is still the same Passing the time and passing the blame
We carry on in the same old way We'll find out we left it too late one day to say what we meant to say

Just when you thought it was safe to go back to the water
Those problems seem to arise the ones you never really thought of The feeling you get is similar to something like drowning
Out of your mind, you're out of your depth, you should have taken soundings Clutching at straws, we're clutching at straws, we're clutching at straws

And if you ever come across us don't give us your sympathy

You can buy us a drink and just shake our hands And you'll recognise by the reflection in our eyes that deep down inside we're all one and the same

We're clutching at straws

We're still drowning

Clutching at straws

We're still drowning, yeah Clutching at straws

I'm still drowning

We're clutching at straws

I'm still drowning

Visit Marillion page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

MotoLyrics.com | Lyrics, music videos, artist biographies, releases and more.