Holding out, she knows what I'm about
I start to play the silent card
You make this easy
Or you play me like a shark

Arms folded, nose to the floor
If it's got to be a leap of faith
I wish somebody'd push me
That way I'd know who to blame

When we go out tonight
I'll be looking so far past the flashing lights

Finally, open my arms wide
Finally, I let you inside
Finally, made it past the end
To finally begin

Weigh the pros but cons come first
I've got a black belt in doubt
I get claustrophobic
All these open doors around

Still the pros are hardest to ignore
Never felt this light before
I took off my sunglasses
And waited for the words

When we go out tonight
I'll be looking so far past the flashing lights

Finally, open my arms wide
Finally, I let you inside
Finally, made it past the end
To finally begin

To finally begin
Where and when

When we go out tonight
I'll be looking so far past the flashing lights
When we go out tonight

I'll be looking so far past the flashing lights

Finally, open my arms wide
Finally, I let you inside
Finally, made it past the end
To finally begin

The hours we keep, the days we save
They add up to years, now face to face
With you by my side, now I can stand
To finally begin

To finally begin
Where and when
To finally begin
Where and when
To finally begin
