You're sitting in a smokey room
You're doing what you do
Waiting for someone
Waiting for no one

You think about going out
But the pubs would have closed by now
Not that there's anyone
That you would know anyway

You can't say those last words alone
But so strong, but tell me how long
Can you go on with just songs?
Tomorrow when we realize why the gift of our eyes
What am I feeling and who am I missing

As the same head storm goes on
While the thick gray clouds
Follow your life down

You're not in the frame of mind
It's easier going down
It's you, yourself
Are the only one who could take it away

You're sitting in an empty room
You're stopped doing what you do
Waiting to come down so you can go out
You decide to get going out

'Cause the people could all free out
And your mind's made up
You're going to get out

You can't say those last words
Alone but so strong
But tell me, how long is it gonna go on?
Tomorrow when we arise
Wipe the venom from your eyes
What am I feeling and who am I missing

As the same head storm goes on

While the thick gray clouds
Follow your life down

You're not in the frame of mind
It's easier going down
It's you, yourself
Are the only one who could take it away

Everybody has their downs
If you think about it now
They don't mean to hurt you
It's just the way that you see them
