"Someone Has To Die"

The leaves came down
When you walked by them all year round
The trees fall at your feet
Southbound birds and winter bees
Are soldiers in the army

All good souls
They do surround me and our lives
Mountains come under attack
When the trade winds blow, rivers dry
Change directions

That's all they know, it's predetermined
A lifetime shakes the hands
Of skeletons and newborns
All I know is someone has to die
To make room for you and I, our love goes

I don't care if it happens in Argentina
Yeah, or way up north
Off the coast of Norway on an island with no name
There's no survivors all the same

No telephones
All I know is someone has to die
To make room for you and I
Our love goes crazy all the time

Were all in line, your blood will tell you
When its time to turn down
Your sword, this is not a warriors war
But the news gets

Distracting our new love keeps on reacting all the time
All I know is someone has to die
To make room for you and I
Our love is crazy all the time
For you and I someone has to die
