(Mark Chesnutt, Roger Springer, Slugger Morrissette)

Weel, earll this morning it dawned on me the kind of man she needed me to be she made a list and laid it there beside me on the bed now what I should-a done keeps running through my head

Chorus

Oh I should-a done this and I should-a done that I should-a been there then she'd-a never left I should-a been hangin' on every word she ever had to say but it's a little too late she's a little too gone she's a little too right I'm a little too wrong now would be a good time to change but it's a little too late Last night I came home at a quarter til three and to my suprise she wasn't mad at me I thought she fin'lly realized not to worry I'd be home and then I realized this morning she was gone repeat chorus
