Out of my Mother, I came with a scream
And onto my feet, Rose with a scheme and Under my Father, I learned how to move
And I move today, Like he taught me to Oooooo

Beside my sisters, I began to speak
Next to my brothers, I began to sing

And I got, Hair on my chest, (On my chest)
More on my face, (My face) Shadeless, Brown, then grey
And I got, Dirt on my hands (On my hands)
Blood in my veins that have, (In my veins) seen its fair share, share of sunny days (Sunny Days)
And I said, (Oooo) I will grow old, still (Oooo) I will grow old, still (Oooo) And I will grow old, still

Sitting a long, I heard myself think Amidst a crowd, So the bottom of a drain
Out in the country, I learned how to hunt
Deep in the city, I go after what I want

And I got, lines on my cheek (On my cheek)
Stretched out my neck, (Out my neck) I am not wise,
But I am smarter now then then

And I got, A rhythm in my step (In my step) Beat in my hear and I, (My heart) done all I can, and it is gotten me this far
And I said, (Oooo) I will grow old, still (Oooo) And I will grow old, still
(Oooo) And I will grow old, still Oooo still

Beside a woman, I took my first breath
Next to a lover, First found I could laugh and Around a child, I first saw myself
In front of a mirror, I see someone else

And I got, A creak in my back (In my back)

A wheeze in my breath and o, (My breath) The days of my youth have not forgotten me yet
And I said, (Oooo) I will grow old, still (Oooo) And I will grow old, still
And I will grow old, still (Oooo) Still, still, still Ooooo, still
O, still (Oooo)
