New poems in need of sunshine and old ways of life
New poems been soaked by rainclouds
Chasing rainbows down
A life that is yours
Where do you belong?
In your golden hours of joy

No one could see
There was no time at all
My waking father's hours

Where he is staying
We can't follow
Where's our father and where's our brother
His gypsy soul has met another
Where's our father and where's our brother

A love without time
A love without time
