I forgot how much I love the smell of dirt fresh off the plow
That tail gate rattle, tires on gravel, I sure do love that sound
And I can't believe I spent so many years running from this
Its slow and it's small and it's life at a crawl but it's everything I miss

Where we come from, Where we're goin'
How to live right here in the moment
How to love somebody, let 'em love you back
When to let her go and cry, when to lighten up laugh
Slow it on down and take a long deep breath
Man the things we forget

Well I pulled off that old river road and I looked back at my life
At the long lost friends and it might have been loves I told goodbye
Then I laid back on my truck hood and I pondered why we're here
if you stare long enough at the stars above Man, it's all gets crystal clear

Where we come from, Where we're goin'
How to live right here in the moment
How to love somebody, let 'em love you back
When to let her go and cry, when to lighten up laugh
Slow it on down and take a long deep breath
Man the things we forget

Where we come from, Where we're goin'
How to live right here in the moment
How to love somebody, let 'em love you back
When to let her go and cry, when to lighten up laugh
Slow it on down and take a long deep breath
Man the things we forget, Man the things we forget

Yeah, the things we forget
