You can be anything that you want to be
As long as anything is what you want to be
At least that's been my point of view

You're the kind of the person that makes me dizzy
And I think you ought to know I know you're busy
And I've been skipping stones at your request

But you could lead me along
All the notes in a song
And then tell me all the things you like the best
You could say you lit across
The unknown universe
And then save it for the days you feel the worst

Love
It's taken some time
But I think I'm finally not so insecure
I'm coming alive for the first time

But you could lead me along
All the notes in a song
And then tell me all the things you love the best
You could say you lit across
The unknown universe
And then save it for the days you feel the worst
