Grasping on the galaxy warmed here by the sun floating to infinity collapse and come undone perfectly dimension here immensity collapse blasted in but far behind won't be torn in half what the hell's the point of this well the sun and the moon are forever however long that takes and to make you see from a different view if it's clear what would you say figure it out is it all figured out and you search and you say what you mean decision is out frozen here as I sit here inside the machine perfectly intention here immensity collapse blasted in but far behind won't be home at last what the hell's the point of this well the sun and the moon are forever however long that takes and to make you see from a different view if it's clear what would you say figure it out is it all figured out and you search and you say what you mean decision is out frozen here as I sit here inside the machine it's all said and done there is no certainty a machine figure it out is it all figured out and you search and you say what you mean decision is out frozen here as I sit here inside the machine decision is out cold in here as I sit here inside the machine
