i saw her from a distance sipping that green straw she looked so cute
i wondered why she couldn't be mine

i had to stop myself from staring too hard because she kept catching me i thought, was she doing the same thing that i was to her but then again who isn't attracted to a girl holding a frap a frap a caramel frap

i walked there the next day and guess who i saw the same fine girl sipping from that straw i ordered my drink, the same as always it was a frap a frap a caramel frap i finally got some balls and walked up to her i asked if she enjoyed her drink that thought stupid me she was holding a frap a frap how could you not love a

frap

but anyway for that entire day i thought of her and how she stood sipping her frap her frap her caramel frap so i called her that night and said lets go out she said yes as long we could go get a frap a frap a caramel frap

i knew at last i had found my girl someone who loves the same things as me her name was mary g.

her friend who was dating my friend was named tessa c.

so oh oh oh oh

we talked and we walked along the boardwalk never ever looking away until that time, i hate that time when she looked down and noticed that there was nothing left of her frap her frap her caramel frap so i let her have a sip of my drink and we both knew it was love because you don't just spare a sip of that drink to just anyone

5 years later, she is my wife and every night we go out and drink a frap a frap our special tasty oh so amazing caramel frap
