"Colored Kisses"

Red, the fire that burns my heart

When you're near it wraps me up

Now I find the space to feel blue

Like the water it fills me with peace

When you love me again I still breathe

King you're at my side

Your soul in mine

But I long for your touch

It's hurting so much

You give me, give me colored kisses

Colored kisses for my lips to taste

You lead me, lead me to an oasis

An oasis where I can lay

My head on your shoulder and pray

What else can I do?

Cause all I want is more and more

Colored kisses from you

Yellow is the sun that shines on me

Like your smile it sets me free

Seasons change to blacken my mood

When I falter my heart goes astray

I remember the nights when you'd take me away

Because when I moan your name

I'm safe and warm but never alone

Because my heart is your home

I pray that no one can take me from you

And no one can break us in two

So lift us up in clouds

Set me free and let your bow shine on me
