

Marty Brown

"You Must Be Mistakin' Me"

Visit "You Must Be Mistakin' Me" on MotoLyrics.com

You must be mistakin' me for someone who used to care
Someone you gave your troubles to when no one else
was there
And now your heart is broke in two, well, honey that just ain't fair
But you must be mistakin' me for someone who used to
care

I know my eyes are blue and I might look the same
And if you'll check my wallet you'll find I have his name But I'm not the one you're looking for, honey, that man has changed
Go tell your troubles to the moon maybe he might know his name

You must be mistakin' me for someone who used to
care
Someone you gave your troubles to when no one else
was there
And now your heart is broke in two, well, honey that just
ain't fair
But you must be mistakin' me for someone who used to
care

Well, I might look like him and he might look like me Oh, but honey, I think we've got a case of mistaken identity
I know I've seen your face before but I just don't know where
But if he ever comes around I'll tell him you still care

You must be mistakin' me for someone who used to
care
Someone you gave your troubles to when no one else
was there
And now your heart is broke in two, well, honey that just
ain't fair
But you must be mistakin' me for someone who used to
care

You say your little heart is broke in two

Well, honey that just ain't fair You must be mistakin' me for someone who used to
care

Visit Marty Brown page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

MotoLyrics.com | Lyrics, music videos, artist biographies, releases and more.