Days you used to spend with me
You spend with someone else, I see
It hurts to know that you and I could never be
Though another owns your heart
You'll always play a leading part
In the thrills that I had built for you and me

It hurts to know that you won't love me ever anymore
It hurts to know that life won't be
As sweet as once before
But I'll live and just pretend, dear
That you still love only me
For consolation all I have is make believe

I'll never ask another soul

To share their love with me
'Cause I know there could be no one but you
So I'll just pretend that you're still mine
And go through life that way
But down inside I know I've lost my love and you
