Well, when I come home this morning
It was still too dark to see
I could tell my baby was 'nt sleeping next to me
She's gone and left me Where to I guess Ill never know

I only know her leave has brought pain and misery to my soul
Well, a note was on the pillow, she's gone without a doubt
I tried to read her writing, but I could 'nt make it out
'cause tears were falling too fast for me to even read Nobody knows my sorrow, nobody knows my misery

My friends told me she'd leave but I said they was 'nt right
She gave no word of warning, she'd be leaving in the night
Can't understand her, what made my baby want to go?
I did 'nt hear her leaving, she did 'nt even close the door When she'd come home this morning, I'd jump and shout with flee

She can't mean more to someone else than what she means to me, I love that woman I got to have her all the time I got to have her near me, to ease this misery on my mind
