Well, me and my baby was a-walkin? down the road
Just a-hoppin? along like two little toads
I looked down at her; I said, ?What can we do??
She said, ?Let's go someplace where we can bop to the blues?

I said, ?I don't know a place where we can do such a thing"
She said, ?I know that place, and, man, it's just a dream
It's just a little spot on the outside of town
Where we can really pick ?em up and put ?em down?

So we went yeah, we were gone, gone along gone
And I'll tell you all about it in the very next verse of my song

Well we went to a place called Everybody's
There I met a little chick called the Tennessee Toddy
The reason she was called the Tennessee Toddy
Was that she was all legs with a little bitty body

But that cat could go, yeah, she was gone, gone along gone
Well I'll tell you all about it in the very next verse of my song

Well, she was long and lean like a green string bean
Calm and collected and cool and keen!
She was all of this and a whole lot more
When my baby saw me watching her, she threw me out the door

And we were gone, yeah, we were gone, along gone
Well, I'll tell you more about it in the very next verse of my song

Well I took my baby home and she said, ?Good night?
She said, ?Be real good and sleep real tight!?
But I rushed right back to Everybody's ?Cause I had to get acquainted with the Tennessee Toddy

So I left, yeah, I was gone, gone along gone
And I'll tell you more about it in the very next verse of my song.

I was back there jumpin? with Toddy at three
When I walked a gent twice as big as me
He looked real mean and mad and sore
He made for me and I made for the door

Just a-runnin?, yeah, I was gone, gone along gone Well I'll tell you more about it in the very next verse of
my song

Well, I didn't know that Toddy had a man of her own
Made out of nothin' but a muscle and bone
I know I'd rather have a baby instead
But that big ape would knock on my head

So I left there, yeah I was gone, gone long gone
Well there ain't no more so this is the end of my song
