

Marty Robbins

"Too Many Places"

Visit "Too Many Places" on MotoLyrics.com

Now there's too many places, too many faces
Too many things to make me blue
Too many places, too many faces bring me
Too many memories of you

You played around with my heart
I was a loser from the start
'Cause I didn't know the right things to do
Yes, I knew you wouldn't care
You only took me on a dare
And I've learned my lesson in your heartbreak school

Now there's too many places, too many faces
Too many things to make me blue
Too many places, too many faces bring me
Too many memories of you

I found another who'll be true
But what good will it do
When my heart and I still belong to you
Must I always love in vain
A heart can take just so much pain
How it hurts to know that you and I are through

Now there's too many places, too many faces
Too many things to make me blue
Too many places, too many faces bring me
Too many memories of you
Bring me too many memories of you

Visit Marty Robbins page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.