(Talk)Leader: Listen, Listen, Listen

There are going to be times in your life as a believer when you're going to question if God is really on your side. An the reason why you're questing it is because of the simple fact it seems like the devil is hitting you with everything he can possibly throw at cha. But you need to understand something below, you need to remember that the only reason why you are in that position now is because God has ordered your steps. An the only reason why the devil is hitting you like he's hitting you is because he has leisurely peeked into your future. An he sees what God is about to bring you into. That's why you can't depend on nothing but the word of God.
