As I leave behind Nidn, It's like purple splashed on green
My soul is strangely fed, Through the winding hills ahead
And she plays a melody, On wind and streams for me

Won't you remember, Won't you remember
Won't you remember me, Won't you remember
Won't you remember, Won't you remember me

And we wind and climb and fall, Like the greatest waltz of all Float across the floor, Her sweet breath outside the door
And it's time that I was gone, Cross the silver tear

Won't you remember, Won't you remember
Won't you remember me, Won't you remember
Won't you remember, Won't you remember me

As I leave behind Nidn, In the hall where we have been Rhododendrons in her hair, In the mountain scented air
I still feel her spirit song, Cross the silver tear

Won't you remember, Won't you remember
Won't you remember me, Won't you remember
Won't you remember, Won't you remember me
