Im just another missing person
Just another missing person
Im just another missing person waiting to be found

When I was younger my options outnumbered the stars in the sky
Now all Ive got is this cloudy night

Im just another missing person
Just another missing person
Im just another missing person waiting to be found

When I was younger I chose to squander my one chance at life
Now all Ive got is this broken heart

Im just another missing person
Just another missing person
Im just another missing person waiting to be found

Darkness crept in and all reason left me
Now Im stranded here in my sin
(Your life is what you make it
You have the choice to truly live or simply die
There is a savior desperately searching for you
His arms are outstretched
And all itll take is a word from you)

Im just another missing person
Just another missing person
Im just another missing person waiting to be found
Im just another missing person
Just another missing person
Im just another missing person whos ready to be found
