

Mary Hopkin

"Fields of St. Etienne"

Visit "Fields of St. Etienne" on MotoLyrics.com

Through the fields of St Etienne
Amidst the corn I wander
In my hand an ear of corn
The morning dew has kissed

Here beneath these skies
I lay with my lover
While the summer winds gathered clouds of war

Au revoir my love
Though the reasons pass me
Why we can't remain in the fields of St. Etienne

Waving proudly, singing loudly
Being young and foolish

He was going never knowing
He would not return
Singing songs of war
Filled with God and country
Marching down the road with the boys that day

Au revoir my love
Though the reasons pass me
Why we can't remain in the fields of St. Etienne

Au revoir my love
Though the reasons pass me
Why we can't remain in the fields of St. Etienne

Visit Mary Hopkin page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.