Mary Magdalan
"I Should Kill You"

If you relish me my time will be a ticking clock and crush me like I crush these rocks until my fucking heart is stopped and suck me in euphoric to the touch I want some more of it the rush is not enough cause you don't love me like the first time that we fucked and now I'm on the carpet tryna pick you up and huff you up you fucked me up and now I'm stuck all doors are shut pressures rising close me eyes I'm lost in my own paradise eyes open wide I'm tryna mend these wounds I crave you like I crave the womb the stars the moon the sun and we've only just begun this love affair that gets us nowhere but I don't care... I don't care

Cocaine whenever ride the snow somebody hide the blow
Cocaine wherever ride the snow I've got more lines to blow

I smell you on my pillow I should kill you I should tell you that I love you but I will not let you be the one to break me of my struggle still juggle moods and attitudes god damn your rude and when it's you and me I don't even crave for food I need booze and without you I need pills without you I feel I'll suck you up in dollar bills but your really fucking killing me poisoned will in me that has me staring at the ceiling paint panting til I paint until you tie me in restraints I just can't take it no more get away from the door and let me be without you I might have to face insanity but fuck it just give me one more kiss because I love it...

Cocaine whenever ride the snow somebody hide the blow
Cocaine wherever ride the snow I've got more lines to blow

More lines to blow more lines to blow blow blow
And I don't care anymore

Cocaine whenever ride the snow somebody hide the blow Cocaine wherever ride the snow I've got more lines to blow

I should kill you...