i don't want to live forever alone except for the sound of the rain i want to experience life in all its glory i don't want to live in time pacified by the silence i want to be out there at the centre of everything alive at the centre of everything under the sun is where i want to be under the sun i don't want to live a future blinded by eternal faith i want to live five minutes five minutes in the real world i don't want to come again i don't need a second chance i believe in one life one life one life only alive at the centre of everything
under the sun
i don't want to live if i can't have life i don't want life if i can't live i just want to run beneath the headlands over the ocean under the sun
under the sun is where i want to be under the sun
under the sun under the sun under the sun under the sun
under the sun under the sun under the sun under the
sun
