And laughing at the chains i?m the first one Who voluntarily submits to her will Because this love blooms in humiliation
And in self-mutilation i cannot express
Because her filthy womb demands a greater sacrifice
Then a handful of silver coins
Then a handful of everything

In effable pain i'm squeezing in my hands
My putrid brain though
There is not enough strength

To extract out of it just another poisonous drop which may infect at least one additional life

With cracking white shell upon my face each neuron crumbles and each cell withers

I do not know myself anymore
Neither my own memories

I see only fingerprints, horror and ashes
I see cut face which fragments i collect
And 'cause I'm unable to cut with them a throat of mine (or the throats of best others)
Again i'm throwing them aside
I scrape a mask from my face, a wreath of pink slices of dead meat
Revealing all the bruises, scars and abscesses depicting a map of my anatomy
And I a dead of the world won't tell you anything beyond the ruin of my life
The ruin of my life!
