"Lights"

Excuse me light of day, can I borrow you tonight
Iâ€™m gonna go to a place where the cold holds right
As I walk through the rain, I see an old old house
It says wonâ€™t you come in and oh yeah bring the lightâ€¦and I say
Oh I guess I can
Oh I guess I CAN
Oh I guess I can spare the light
As I step through the door, all I see is confused eyes
And then a person says to me, whatâ€™s it like to know light
I said itâ€™s hard to explain, itâ€™s like being born for the second time
Itâ€™s kinda like being placed in a world with no wrong
And then they said
Do you think you can
Do you think you CAN
Do you think you can spare some light
As we all start to sway, twist and mend in the light
I can see every face their all like mine
As the night turns to day, and the hurt turns to joy
We all walk to the place where the light holds right
And we say
Oh yes we can
Oh yes we can
Oh yes we can share the light
