Waiting on the edge of your prodigle heart
Wanting for someone to save you from yourself
Out there on the edge dangling somewhere in the darkness
Doubting if anybody really cares

But when love reached through the shadows
Whispering your name
Nothing will ever be the same again

For when love calls you home
Forgiveness embrasses a past you once owned
And all the mistakes that carried your name are gone
'Cause that's what happens when love calls you home

Cradled in your mercy that has no limit
I've finally found a place where I belong
Now I can't imagine one moment without you in it
It's hard to believe I tried to make it on my own

But you picked me up from the ruins of my broken life
When every chance was spend you gave me one more try

For when love calls you home
Forgiveness embrasses a past you once owned
And all the mistakes that carried your name are gone
'Cause that's what happens when love calls you home, yeah

For when love calls you home
Forgiveness embrasses a past you once owned
And all the mistakes that carried your name are gone
'Cause that's what happens when love calls you home

For when love calls you home
Forgiveness embrasses a past you once owned
And all the mistakes that carried your name are gone
'Cause that's what happens when love calls you home
