When we were young it never felt this way
The world seemed big enough to take
All our fears away
But we have come so far
Do we even know who we are anymore

In the time it takes to realize your dreams
The crowd is gone and moving on
To find the next big thing
But won't you stay with me
We could take our time and see this thing through

Well I might be a little crazy
Thinking that somehow maybe
There could be a love that
Saves you and me tonight

There's so much wrong with everything today
And cynical is where we've been
But we don't have to stay
Cause there's a love song inside my heart
Waiting for the moment it's time to start
To let it out

Well I might be a little crazy
Thinking that somehow maybe
There could be a love that
Saves you and me tonight

Lonely runs deep till the well is dry
But we've only begun to see the other side, tonight

Come what may
Together we could be okay
That's what I believe

I might be a little crazy
Thinking that somehow maybe
There could be a love that
Saves you and me tonight
