(W. Hector / R. Smith)

You're cold as Ice, Dark as night, like a thorn left in my mind

So why should I still long for you
A mistress so impossible, so cruel yet wonderful
Wise men have lost their wits over you

You make me believe you're back for good each time
Then you go and when you leave
You take my pride but I need you still
A man can need love but love never will
You're cold as Ice, cold as ice

And even when you're close to me, you're still a whisper of a dream
What am I to hold on to.
No loyalty in your design, so many lovers left behind
But even though I see right through you

You make me believe you're back for good each time
Then you go and when you leave
You take my pride but I need you still
A man can need love but love never will
You're cold as Ice, cold as ice

You make me believe you're back for good each time
Then you go and when you leave
You take my pride but I need you still
A man can feel love but love never will You're cold as Ice, but I love you
And I always will
I guess I always
You're cold as Ice, Dark as Night, Cold as Ice
