Somewhere in between the beginning and the end
September took the tourist and settled in for good

You could hear the trains again
Brooklyn girls in scarves summer left and no one said a word

We'd open your window
stay in your bed
all day 'til the street lights came on

So what happened to bulletproof weeks in your arms?
What happened to singing cheap radio songs?
What happened to thinking the world was flat?
What happened to that?

Up on 59th street
right before the rain lovers catching taxis going downtown

I'm talking to what's left of you watching what I say counting all the freckles on your perfect face

You open your window and I stay on your bed
just hoping that right words will come

So what happened to bulletproof weeks in your arms?
What happened to singing cheap radio songs?
What happened to thinking the world was flat?
What happened to that?

So what happened to bullet proof weeks in your arms?
What happened to singing cheap radio songs?
What happened to thinking the world was flat?
What happened to that? what happened to that?

Its all gone, love, it's all wrong

So what happened to bullet proof weeks in your arms?
What happened to feeling cheap radio songs?
What happened to thinking the world was flat?
What happened, what happened to that?
