Sun, shines hot across your face you tell me every mans a liar or a theif and I could

try to prove you wrong

but we both know that I can't get to what you need it's all

its all becoming clear

weeks turned months turned years

and I can't get to what you need it's long gone gone and it's never coming back all my habits

they're the richest things in me my love

I only feel right on my knees so I'll stay down and watch you float away

it's all

our love

it's riding on it's rails

it's stutters sparks then fails

I can't get to what you need shut up

it's all me

I know it's really not fair so shut up

really not fair and its all

all becoming clear

it stutters sparks and fails but I can't get to what you need but I can't get to you

I can't get to you
