I am consumed with thoughts of you
My entire being won't rest until these feelings do
Why do I do this all the time
Jump in head first forgetting the divine

But you comfort me
And you help me to see
Feeling drained, I look to you for strength
And you rest me on your knee

I seem to break down, at the thought of that night
Why is my need for a girl stronger than my lust for God
Won't you tell me right now

But you comfort me
And you help me to see
Feeling drained, I look to you for strength
And you rest me on your knee

Why do I worry about these things

So small, yet they seem so big
It's just that I'm not the best with the ladies
And I want someone to hold

But you comfort me
And you help me to see
Feeling drained, I look to you for strength
And you rest me on your knee

Take me down to the riverside with you
And wash me clean away
