I made a movie about the end of the world it was 12 seconds long and it didn't have a plot it just happens and that's why it's in black and white the characters don't talk or move around they just stare up at the sky, frozen and the light, the light is numb, the light is off the light is just a thumb nail sketch of god god... somewhere, someone is crying the camera sweeps over a desolate street holding a mother and her child the kid is calm and she is shaking the camera passes into the sun come at last to be undone panicking, she tries to run the kid is calm and then the credits roll and every name is my name
