

Mavis Staples

"All the Discomforts of Home"

Visit "All the Discomforts of Home" on MotoLyrics.com

There's my easy chair though it's so hard sitting there when i still miss you so each night at ten, i turn in & simply close the door why did you have to go?

the playroom is just a room i cry in & the livingroom is just a room i seem to die in when it falls apart, & you're left with a broken heart once all the love is gone, it's hard living alone with all the discomforts of home

There's my fireplace yet i'm cold as a winter's day pardon me while i cry i still climb the stairs & find myself awaiting your embrace why did you say goodbye?

a gazebo, a patio, a corner to grieve in a master suite, satin sheets, a bed to weep in
when it falls apart, & you're left with a broken heart
once all the love is gone, it's hard living alone
with all the discomforts of home

a gazebo, a patio, a corner to grieve in
a master suite, satin sheets, a bed to weep in
when it falls apart, & you're left with a broken heart
once all the love is gone, it's hard living alone
with all the discomforts of home.

Visit Mavis Staples page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.