Broken glass from a window shattered yesterday deep inside I feel the same
All the while reflections of the one that went away
Shine off these pale four walls
Dissonance is the only song I want to sing
I would pray if I knew that you were listening

Don't walk away
Don't walk away
I surrender, to you today
This bended knee is breaking me
I'll surrender, I surrender

Staring down the pages of saltwater memories
Emotions etched from the heart
But that was bled so dry
There's nothing left to find
But the ashes of my soul

I surrender
It will be better
This is my vow to change

It stands to reason that some things were never meant to be
I should've known from the start
The race has been run
And all is said and done
Have the ashes been swept away?

Don't walk away
Don't walk away
I surrender
to you today
This bended knee is breaking me
I'll surrender, I surrender
