There's a story that you might have known
Don't we all live there sometimes You might have heard a whisper about the many who have tried
To brand me cause they don't understand Everybody's got a reason to survive they'll become who they'll be Convictions speak so softly but they shout at the same time
And they drown out the bad time
Branded cause I wont let go
Holding on to what I know
That's all right with me
That you'll always see me as the star of your one-man freak show
I'm not a savior
I'm not the one to testify
Maybe it's because I'm too weak
But there's strength in knowing that there's just a little sacrifice
And there's not much left, I can be proud

Branded cause I wont let go
Holding on to what I know
That's all right with me
I'm the star of your one-man freak show
The star of your freak show
The star of your freak show

Ever wonder who's a faker who's a liar
And how much longer can we go
There's a revolution around our side
It's getting hard for the freak to abstain
It's getting hard for the freak

Branded cause I wont let go
Holding on to what I know
That's all right with me
That you'll always see me as the star of your one-man
freak show
I'm the star of your one-man freak show

I'm the star of your one-man freak fucking show
