You're looking at me, and I'm looking at you
We both don't know anything to say to each other Lies aren't mentioned, but also not the truth
Almost looking like we don't even bother oh yea

But you don't know that it got the other way, You're still blaming me while I'm the one to pay the price again

Still don't know why, all this happened in a short time
Wasted time, form hours to minutes to seconds
Shadows ghosts and all these things of unknown value
They kept me falling falling and failing just for you

Still you always point me at the door
While you could have seen it a long time before
I was the one that always made sure you came through Still you haven't even got another mighty clue
All these scars of my are proof of what I've done Still you're always saying you're the cause you always won

But you don't know that it got the other way,
You're still blaming me wile I'm the one to pay the price again

Still don't know why, all this happened in a short time
Wasted time, form hours to minutes to seconds
Shadows ghosts and all these things of unknown value
They kept me falling falling and failing just for you
