[VERSE 1] Dear Lord, forgive me for my sins when I fall short I know my story's a likely story and you heard this one before But might I try again, till it seems it's all in vain (Trust and you'll be damned) I'll trust and wait for change I mean this countdown really ain't no secret, believe it When You countdown niggas ain't gon peep it But I can't help but think about my little girls They ain't know, so where they headed in Your new world? This after-life/after-death bidness got me wonderin if I'm twisted Whether be Baptist or Christian, even though mom's Jevoha Witness? I don't think so, none of these preachers coincide None of 'em look like Noah, Lord, they all drive these fancy rides So who do I believe With all these hypocrite liars who blast fiends for the green? So tonight before I close my eyes and go to sleep I got a demo that I want you to peep And it goes [CHORUS] Amazing grace, how sweet a sound To save the wretched like me I once was lost but now I'm found I was blind but now I see It ain't easy No, no [VERSE 2] My bad association has ruined my useful habits Wishin I could return and get it back the way I had it But it's definitely not easy, Lord, when (?) Have me soakin' in a bottle of Henny Loc hopin' that it ease me But I've accepted my corruption I'm under construction Pray that it ain't too late, wait upon destruction See, either way, we come or go When it's over we won't even know That's the way it should be, just start over, everywhere to go It's easier said than done, scared for reason number one When I was a young boy I wondered if he had a gun Is he really that cruel, mama? She replied: Not as long as he won't use the tool on ya; that's when I cried So tonight before I close my eyes and go to sleep I got a demo that I want you to peep And it goes [CHORUS] Amazing grace, how sweet a sound To save the wretched like me I once was lost but now I'm found I was blind but now I see It ain't easy No, no [VERSE 3] I feel like You just testin me and it's really done got the best of me But You caress me and pointin' me in the right direction of my destiny And the psychic helpline Ain't really helped mine When I called through And when I got they phone bill, that's when I called You And it's easier this way cause I don't live offa he-she Most of the time she-say, BS keep comin like a replay Somewhat of a cliché, feared like it was d-day Melody be so heavenly you got more than one DJ So tonight before I lay my head down and go to sleep I got a demo that I want you to peep And it goes [CHORUS] Amazing grace, how sweet a sound To save the wretched like me I once was lost but now I'm found I was blind but now I see It ain't easy No, no
