With endless words and images
All this beauty never fading
(We are called to one voice)

But this world with its shadows lying still
This is worth fighting for

This is worth all I have
Who will struggle for whats been won?
If we give our lives then we'll see
We will find them again
We will find them again

This is life this is happening because we're standing before forever
This is my heart on the broken
I will give my life
Its worth fighting for

Now what matters most to you and I
We can't hold it in our hands
But if we can learn to let it go
We will find life again
We will find life again

This is life
This is happening
This is life
This is worth fighting for
