Cut out all frontiers and draw me some pearl strings to wind around me tears, so that I look up the sky over me and rock me asleep until lights end and clouds come so deep. Slowly tell me Iâ€™m your need, Iâ€™m your smile, Iâ€™m your passion, your creed bitter-sweet taste lips Take me away where some white stars light up your skin lightinâ€™ it softly Cut down all mistakes and draw me a black line to follow your way I know all the blots canâ€™t be wiped out by the time I note down my days underline every wrong word I say Slowly I take my wings and simply start to fly inside your dreams floating in your mind I canâ€™t go back cause I see the man that I should be the words you desire Yes I know youâ€™re my mirror, my reflection, my blue pen over this sheet, silence strenght that makes we meet I hear your smell when youâ€™re far away heart beats givinâ€™ light to all my days I know for certain
