Meat Loaf
"Break It"

Everything I've ever dreamed of
Has begun to fade to black
And I don't know where I ever lost love
Or where to go now to get it back
I'm a desperate, lonely child
And I don't have enough
Well, I've come to know the rules
And laws and scriptures of love

If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it don't exist, you make it
If it ain't broke, break it
If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it's gone to sleep, you wake it
If it ain't broke, break it

Lord, gimme some words I can live by
Gimme commandments to know
You gotta gimme some fables and proverbs
You gotta gimme some signs where to go
There are designated angels
Who just might save your soul
They give you words to live by
And that's all that I know

If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it don't exist, you make it
If it ain't broke, break it
If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it's all gone bad, forsake it
If it ain't broke, break it

There are designated angels
Who just might save your soul
They give you words to live by
And that's all that I know

If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it don't exist, you make it
If it ain't broke, break it
If it ain't real, fake it

If it ain't yours, take it
If it's gone to sleep, you wake it
If it ain't broke, break it
If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it don't exist, you make it
If it ain't broke, break it
If it ain't real, fake it
If it ain't yours, take it
If it's all gone bad, forsake it
If it ain't broke, break it
Ooh, yeah, yeah
Oh, yeah, break it
