You say you're all alone
And after all the changes
You've been through today
You can use a little tenderness
Right now

Okay, I've been alone
And I can understand
The way you feel tonight
Maybe together we can Change it all right now

I can tell by the look
In your tear-filled eyes
You need somebody
You can hold on to

If you really want to
I'd love to hold you
If you really want to
Then I'd love to be the body
That you hold on to

And you say he broke your heart
He left you crying
But he did not set you free
And now you feel
Like you can never love again

Okay, so let him go
It's up to you how long
You let his memory stay
And do you really want
To carry on this way?

I can tell by the look
In your tear-filled eyes
You need somebody
You can hold on to

If you really want to
I'd love to hold you

If you really want to
Then I'd love to be the body
That you hold on to

If you really want to
If you really want to
Then I really can't deny you

So many things you need to know
So many left to say
But you mean more than words, I know
I can help you chase the pain away

I can tell by the look

If you really want to
If you really want to
Then I'd love to be the body

If you really want to
If you really want to

If you really want to
