

Medford Falling "The Ripple Effect"

Reaching out for nothing, the waters seem to stop my breathing.

And I'm drowning in a pool of lies, you told me and I can't see you through this unclear view.

I'm sinking fast and you're not around, you're not
around to save me, to bring me ashore.

All you have to do is carry me back to the dock, to the dock and leave my body to writhe from the stress of
the flood.

I only make you smile, when I am down and helpless,
down and wondering where you are.

I know you think you have a reason, to do what you do,
and to stand where

You are, but this water that is filling me doesn't have a sense of

Time, and doesn't think I'm running out.

I'm sinking fast and you're not around, you're not
around to save me, to bring me ashore.

All you have to do is carry me back to the dock, to the dock and leave my body to writhe from the stress of
the flood.

My eyes are closing now, my heart is slowing down, My blood is getting colder, this is my last thought of you.

I've let you go, I've let you go

I'm sinking fast and you're not around, you're not
around to save me, to bring me ashore.

All you have to do is carry me back to the dock, to the dock and leave my body to writhe from the stress of
the flood
